One Hundred and Forty-Two Years of Labor and Struggle

THE American people fought their first battles for liberty and the rights of self-government one hundred and forty-two years ago.

¶ At that time, and for many years thereafter, their realization of their national aspirations and of the goal toward which they were really striving was vague and indistinct. But step by step they struggled onward and upward toward a light which grew clearer as their eyes and minds slowly opened to its significance. Today, as a result of their struggles and their sacrifices, we possess and enjoy our priceless American institutions.

The immediate need is the investment of our money in LIBERTY BONDS!

¶ These institutions must be preserved. The structure so laboriously reared in these one hundred and forty-two years will be utterly destroyed if we do not spring to its defense with every atom of our energy and determination. This is not a situation which may be trifled with, or evaded, or put off. It is one which must be met now—today—no matter what sacrifices it may entail, or what the cost may be.

CHANGE IN LIBRARY HOURS

At a meeting of the trustees of the Glendale public library held Tuesday evening, a decision was reached to restore the original hours of service at the Tropico library, viz., from 12 o'clock noon to 9 p. m., during which time Charles Cushing, the librarian will be in charge. It has been found that there is not sufficient use of the library during the morning hours to make necessary keeping it open during that period of the day, and it was the opinion of trustees that the wishes of patrons would be best served by having Mr. Cushing take charge during the hours named.

GRAND VIEW TO ASK FOR NEW ELECTION

The election recently held for the annexation of the Grand View territory resulted in 27 votes being cast, 25 being for annexation and two being against it. An appeal was made by a resident of the Grand View district asking for a writ of review before Judge Jackson of the proceedings, alleging that the Grand View district was not contiguous to the city, that it was thinly inhabited, and other objections. The decision of Judge Jackson was that the city had no jurisdiction for the annexation of territory so situated and contiguous by means of a narrow strip of land. It is now planned to hold a new election which will include the whole district, including the territory north and west of the city which extends one block beyond the Grand View district, and papers have been filed with the Board of Trustees giving notice that a petition will be circulated asking for the annexation of this territory.

DRAFTED MEN GO TO FORT McDOWELL

The local exemption board sent forward another lot of men from this district on Wednesday evening. They left on the Santa Fe for Fort McDowell, near San Francisco. One Tropico boy, Melbourn J. Edwards, 617 East Cypress street, was among those who entrained. The names and addresses of the others from this district who were sent are Ray W. Sanborn, Los Angeles; Frederick C. Reed, Lankershim; Charles W. Livingston, formerly of 1421 Pioneer drive, now of Los Angeles; Dan Huffman, Universal City, and Ralph S. Bourne, Eagle Rock.

"How do we live?" writes a woman in Belgium. "You can not form any idea. Butter sells at $3 a pound. Potatoes at $40 a sack. These are not exceptions. They are only examples. Our hearts break in contemplating all the misery that we see about us; but we are proud, nevertheless, to prove that we can endure it all without hesitating or wavering. We have too much to die, too little to live. We are becoming skeletons, but hope sustains."

This hope is America and American food—especially wheat.

Grownups Not Appreciative.

The greatest of our many pleasures, perhaps, is to write pieces for and about children, because they are the only ones who appreciate things that are done for them. Grownups don't appreciate that sort of thing. They always find something wrong about it. The reporter doesn't live who can write a piece about a grownup in which the grownups can't find some mistake. But children overlook details, and are grateful for the reporter's kindly intent. The other day we wrote a piece for the little boy who lives in the big apartment house where everybody else is grown up. Last night we saw the little boy, and asked him if he saw the piece. He said yes, his mamma had read it to him. And then he ran up and kicked us on the shins. It was the first time he ever had flattered us with so much as a glance, and immediately we knew we had made a friend for life. We have written verse by the yard for grownups, but if they ever were pleased with it, they kept the fact carefully concealed. — Kansas City Star.

✚ RED CROSS NOTES ✚

THE RED CROSS CARNIVAL

Practically all members of the local Red Cross are enthusiastic in the work they are doing to make a big success of the carnival and dance to be given by them at the public playgrounds on Saturday, May 18. Committees have been appointed for the various booths, and they are entering upon their work with a determination to make this carnival the largest and best ever given, and there is no doubt but what the largest crowd ever assembled on the playgrounds will be there that day and night. The program, which will be published in the Herald next week, will have many new features, and will have a larger variety of entertainment than heretofore. "Dancing by the moonlight" on the large tennis court will be enjoyed by hundreds of couples in the evening, and the playgrounds will be the scene of many battles—not with cannons and guns, though, but with that old-time ammunition—confetti.

The contest for the queen of the day is causing considerable rivalry between the girls who aspire for the honor. The contest was to have closed Monday, but on account of the girls wanting to make as large a showing as possible the committee in charge have decided to hold the contest open until Friday night, May 10.

The school children will take an important part in the exercises for the afternoon, and the teachers are busy in making out a program which will be very interesting. The children will have drills of various kinds, fancy dancing, a May pole, and one of the big features of the afternoon will be the miniature floral parade, in which only youngsters may participate. Prizes will be awarded in this for the best floats. The Boy Scouts from Eagle Rock, Glendale and Tropico will give a thirty-minute program in the afternoon.

Some of the booths and concessions which the local clubs and organizations will have, and those who will have charge of them, are as follows:

Ice cream, Mrs. A. J. Becker and Francis Bacon; grab bag, the U. and I. Club; candy and punch and toys, in charge of the Junior Red Cross, all proceeds from these booths to go into the treasury of the Junior Red Cross; confetti and soda pop, Mrs. J. V. Griffin and Mrs. Chappius; "hot dogs," Mrs. Robert Danner and Mrs. C. J. Bruck; apron and useful articles, Mrs. M. N. Barnes, Mrs. West and Mrs. Klamm; peanuts and popcorn, the Ladies' Aid Society; pie, Relief Corps, Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Chadwick in charge; cake, P. E. O., Mrs. Ripley in charge. A dinner will be served at six o'clock to accommodate those who do not wish to go home, and this will be in charge of Mrs. Chauncey Lake, who will be assisted by Mesdames J. W. Gould and Alma Dutton, who are well known for their excellent cooking of meat, and the following women will have charge of the cooking of the vegetables and pastry, etc., Mesdames Hibben, Haynes, Hyer, Cramer, P. O. Lucas, Hal Davenport, W. H. Bullis, E. E. Hearin, A. J. Van Wie, Mary J. Rich and W. C. Seal. A booth of home-cooked foods will be had by the P.-T. A., of the Cerritos school.

The program for the evening will be in charge of Mrs. B. F. Cook. The big dance to be given in the evening will be in charge of Robert Oliver and Mable Craig.

GLENDALE FOR LIBERTY

By Walt LeNoir Church

Far "Over the Top" with Liberty Bonds,
The loyal young Glendale goes—
Divided in local affairs may be—
United against our foes

In thousands, our stunt, one hundred and twelve!
Twas doubled, almost, galore!
Our limit alone is what we can lend,
So, still we're crying for "more."

Our Boys Over There are doing their best,
But many lie still and cold,
We Non-fighters give our work and ourself,
Then why should we stint our gold?
Our rich and our poor alike do their bit,
Our lending is but begun,
And Glendale is pledging all she has left
To conquor the savage hun.

Travels of the Ricebird.

The bobolink or ricebird is a common songster in the eastern regions of our country. It winters in Central America and the West Indies. Up to a short time ago the bird was excluded from our western states because, being a frequenter of damp meadows it could not cross the intervening arid belt. But the progress in irrigation extended the bobolink's area of habitation. We now find the ricebird almost close to the Pacific. Curiously enough, the return journey from its winter quarters follows the old route—i. e., the eastern states, the birds having evidently not yet learned the short cut across New Mexico.

Chile has 6,014 miles of government owned railways.

WILL START BIG POTATO CAMPAIGN NEXT MONDAY

In Glendale, as in every town in the United States, next week will be "Potato Week." Everybody is urged to buy potatoes next week and the weeks to follow, until the present supply is cleaned up. This means YOU, the same as it means every other true American citizen. Potatoes take the place of wheat. We can send wheat to the Allies and eat potatoes instead.

The big potato campaign starts Monday. Be prepared to do your share. Potatoes are a strictly American product. They grew on this continent when the Mohawks and the Cherokees ruled with a tomahawk. They were the gift of America to Europe, and Europe has gone us one better. They know the food value of the potato and consume more per capita than does America.

"By eating potatoes instead of wheat, the people of Glendale can help win the war as well as by purchasing Liberty Bonds and contributing to the Red Cross," said Mrs. Elizabeth M. Mumford, county food director.

"The situation, in brief, is this We have not enough wheat for our Allies and ourselves. We have an abundance of potatoes an excess of 90,000,000 bushels over normal times. If we are to win this war the Allies must have wheat. The potato cannot quite come up to wheat in food value but it does come about as close to taking the place of wheat as any other food. Therefore, by eating potatoes we can save wheat for the Allies.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Ralston Wins Close Contest in Oratorical.. Scrubs Cop Booth

One of the most exciting Oratorical Contests ever held came off last Friday night. Not only were all the orations excellent but the booths of the different classes were wonderful. The spirit of the evening was patriotism. Both contests were very close.

In the booth contest the little Scrubbies came off victorious. It was a great honor for the Scrubs to win. No wonder that the little Scrubs went wild and seemed so elated. The Scrubs had a wonderful booth and deserve much credit.

Clarence Ralston stirred the audience with a wonderful oration and excellent delivery, thus winning the oratorical honors for the Sophomore class. Philip Wernette's fine oration with its appeal and the earnestness of its delivery won him second place. Harlan Durand and Esther Black, who also had very good orations, won third and fourth places respectively.

Clarence Ralston will now represent the school in the Interurban Contest which will be held May 17 at Pasadena.

OFFICIAL FOOD NEWS

Issued by
U. S. Food Administration
for California
RALPH P. MERRITT, Commissioner

Save more wheat,—and more, and more!

Necessity tightens its grip. What was sufficient for yesterday, is not enough for today. The long drain on Uncle Sam's wheat bin this winter has begun to tell.

Today, the wheat crisis abroad has grown still more acute. This is the fag-end of the cereal supply,—the last few months before the new harvest. The Allies' home supply is at its lowest. Their need for outside help is at its highest. The Allies cannot hope to meet the military crisis on the first line trench unless we assure them help in the food crisis that threatens their rear guard of brave men, women and children left behind to build ships, make munitions and prepare clothing for those at the front.

This is the reason the call has come that we must save still more wheat to give the Allies. Instead of reducing our wheat consumption one-third as we have been urged to do, we must now reduce it one-half.

This means that each person must limit his or her consumption of wheat products to one and one-half pounds per week.

Direct orders for the family should be formulated by every patriotic housekeeper. In place of bread for dinner, she should demand of her household that they eat more potatoes, or—for variety—rice, as a vegetable, or hominy grits.

Breakfast should begin the day not by the breaking of bread, but by the serving of oatmeal, cornmeal mush or prepared non-wheat products. And the housewife must serve these breakfast cereals, not apart from the eggs or coffee, but with them, so that the lack of bread will be met quite obviously.

At luncheon, any bread served should be quite wheatless, and if potatoes are served, bread can be easily omitted.

These are only a few of the ways that can be found by the housekeeper who wants to eliminate wheat entirely from her menu, and so make a high contribution to cause and country.

A REALISTIC OCEAN FIGHT TO BE PRODUCED AT VENICE

On Sunday, May 5 a thrilling sea fight will take place off the Venice pier where an engagement between a German submarine, an English merchantman and an American destroyer, two aeroplanes and a land battery, which will bring the war that is raging on the other side of the world right up to our very doors This will not be a pigmy marionette exhibition, but one full of thrilling moments, with bursting shells, roar of bombs and hand grenades and plenty of real excitement, for the battle, as planned, has all the earmarks of a big engagement.

The synopsis of the battle is as follows: Opening, Boom of cannon heard in the distance. Pleasure boat seen approaching from Del Rey side with a trail of smoke behind which is soon seen as the outlines and color of a submarine. Rapid puffs of smoke show that the submarine is firing at the boat. The cannon on the pleasure boat is returning the fire but as she has but one gun it is very weak in comparison to the bombardment of the submarine.

From the pier the big torpedo boat dashes for the open sea with her decks cleared for action. The pleasure boat is heading toward the pier and the torpedo boat circles around in her wake to attack the submarine. A series of shells and gunfire follows. Overhead comes the purr of the big aeroplane motors and bombs rain around the submarine. The land cannon on the end of the pier now join in the fray and it is certainly a merry battle. Suddenly a large shell hits the submarine and a thundering explosion follows. When the smoke clears away nothing is seen but some floating debris remains of the attacking submarine.

BARLEY BREAD

1 quart water
1 cup pearl barley
1 or 2 cakes compressed yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
5 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons corn syrup
7 cups flour

Mix as follows: Soak the barley in the 1 quart of water over night. Boil in the same water until soft, mash fine, then cool until lukewarm. ## ONE TOUCH OF EARTHQUAKE MAKES THE WHOLE STATE KIN

By Editor of "The Californians"

From the hill above San Jacinto this peaceful Sunday afternoon you look out over a marvelous valley of Golden fruitage, wondering if Nature's paramount expression be form or color; till you hear that mockingbird trill up to you. Is this the place where "The Lotus Eaters" said it "Seems always afternoon"? But it does not resemble that afternoon of April 21, just 82 years ago, when Sam Houston charged with 700 Texans shouting "Remember the Alamo," won the other San Jacinto, and set Texas free.

Suddenly the mountain quivers. The valley waves. The Temblor Demon springs upon San Jacinto—shivers a whole city block to rubbish.

He rips the front from the brick mansion, exposing beds, tables, chairs standing—with pictures of loved ones hanging on the inner walls.

He snatches up a beautiful bungalow, to dash it down on edge, sprawling its screaming children into the swaying flower beds—then telescopes the desolated habitation.

But as if guarded by mightier powers, no schoolhouse, store or dwelling built of reinforced concrete is harmed by the Devastator.

"Little Mary Mixup" arrived in "Joe's car" and exclaimed, "The Huns have been here!"

One touch of earthquake makes the whole state kin. Riverside's Chamber of Commerce president was there next morning with $2000. Redlands with $600—others with their bit; Hemet was still protesting that her loss was no greater than she could bear. Assistant Secretary Dudley of L. A. Chamber of Commerce, doubly urged all Southern County Secretaries to accept Riverside's urgent invitation for the monthly convention. They met at "Mission Inn," the nomad's home of luxury, comfort and delight —without prototype or successor. What a luncheon! What music! And the subterranean labryinth of world curios, climaxed in that almost living "Court of Pope Pius X in the Vatican!"

The Commercial Secretaries visited Hemet and San Jacinto, met by the joint committee, who admitted $150,000 loss. They cannot rebuild their cities and equipment to save their great citrus and other crops to help down the Hun. Through L. A. Chamber of Commerce official report will be made to all commercial bodies in the state. Let one touch of earthquake make us all kin. Aristotle said, "These things we learn to do by doing them: prayer by praying; love by loving; forgiveness by forgiving." Why not add, "and to give by giving"?

One primal object of "The Californians" is to prepare for state-wide mutual helpfulness, with quick action in calamity. That is voiced in our slogan: "Each for every other; and all for one."

Note.—Buy more Liberty Bonds. Donate or loan them to San Jacinto and Hemet—making your money do patriotic service to both nation and state.

N. B.—San Francisco has donated $10,000.

CENTRAL AMERICAN TRADE INCREASING

Dr. H. J. Spinden, assistant curator of the department of anthropology of the American Museum of Natural History, who has for the last 11 months traveled extensively in Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica, declared recently that business in these countries had progressed ahead of transportation facilities; that the trade, which formerly was controlled by Germany and France, had turned to the United States, and that now the problem was to hold it after the war. Dr.Spinden declared that America must build up an assured traffic, in view of her increased merchant marine.

"Among the materials which Central American countries want to get from the United States are lumber, oil, particularly crude oil; flour, corrugated iron, and, in fact, everything essential to their everyday life." Dr. Spinden continued. "And among the things America needs to do to establish herself firmly in this trade is to establish banks and closer co-operation between the buying and selling interests.

"In spite of all that has been done to extend a truer knowledge of American business to Central American peoples, there is still a need of proper propaganda to offset that of the Germans. We have particularly strong reasons for claiming the sympathy of our southern neighbors. The United States has adopted a much less selfish business policy than Germany, since all the large American companies have reinvested their profits and have even gone afield to borrow money to develop the resources of Central America. The greater public utilities are practically all in the hands of Americans, including the international railway systems. Even American mining companies have reinvested a large part of their profits in these countries.

"Germany, on the other hand, has been exceedingly selfish. Beginning with small capital, German merchants have built up a large trade. All the profits, however, have gone to further German imperialistic designs in various parts of the world, and with the exception of a small electric light company, there are no public-service companies supported by German capital.

"The Central American people have a great fear of being absorbed by the United States, but they should be made to see that our business methods have been of far greater benefit to them than those of Germany. The entrance of the United States into the war raised our position as regards these countries. The mere fact of the publication of the American blacklist was a blow to Germany. The Central American people, fed up on German propanganda, had been led to believe that everything was going as Germany had planned."—C. S. Monitor.

War's Legitimate Object.

A definition of war attributed to William Tecumseh Sherman is quoted the world over. Yet it was delivered in an offhand fashion and was never intended by the general to be taken as a thoroughly matured conclusion. Another definition of war with which, however, he would doubtless have preferred his name to be identified was. "War's legitimate object is a more perfect peace," words, by the way, that may be found inscribed upon his monument at Washington. — Christian Science Monitor.

The "charger" of the Bible was a shallow vessel for receiving water or blood. It was also used for preserving offerings of fine flour with oil (Numbers vii. 79).

A CONVERSATION

Between Mr. Doubtful and Mr. Right

Mr. Doubtful: "I don't see how I can buy any more Liberty Bonds. I bought all I could last fall. I'm not a rich man and I don't think it's fair or just to expect me to do anything more than I have done."

Mr. Right: "Let's see — your next-door neighbor's boy enlisted, didn't he?"

Mr. Doubtful: "Yes, he's over in France now. Mighty fine, stalwart boy, that!"

Mr. Right: "Exactly, and some day that splendid boy, the pride of his parents' hearts, may go 'over the top' in a gallant charge, stop a German bullet, and fall in the mud and debris of No Man's Land. Isn't that asking too much of him, and of his family? Is that 'fair?' Is that 'just?'"

Mr. Doubtful: "Why, it's awful, of course, but it can't be helped. This is war, and men have to be killed in it."

Mr. Right; "You've said it — this is war! To win the war it might be necessary for the government to take your factory away from you, and ruin your business. It might be necessary to take your house and turn you out in the street. What of that? Is that as great a sacrifice as your neighbor makes, or stands ready to make, when he gives his boy to his country? Yet you don't think it's your duty to pinch and save, and borrow if need be, in order to buy Liberty Bonds, and thus help shorten the war, make victory certain, and save the lives of thousands of American boys who will otherwise be uselessly sacrificed.

Mr. Doubtful: "I guess that's true, Mr. Right, I have been thoughtless. I'll stop complaining and criticising, and put up my last dollar if need be, to help win this war."

An' next he comes a-shamblin' back to me; up goes his head—I shan't fergit the way he looked; an' this is what he said: "I'd awful like to learn to be a soldier, Uncle Dan; but I guess workin' this here farm would be more like a man!" Ol' Thales o' Miletus, an' Our President agree; an' Pete's brave kid self-sacrifice should teach both you an' me!

The Navy needs these "eyes" to derive the submarine of its sting and it has requested the California State Council of Defense to help it obtain them. Commissioning hundreds of new ships for naval service has created a demand for observation glasses far in excess of the present American output. The only way to insure an adequate supply while the manufacturers of lenses are speeding up production is by appealing to the patriotism of private owners.

The Government pays a nominal fee of $1,00 for each glass accepted and the donor is further rewarded by knowing that his patriotic contribution may be the means of saving thousands of troops in transport and also of saving much-needed shipping from destruction.

Old, scuffed telescopes or field glasses may possess first class lenses, so don't be chary about forwarding them regardless of appearance.
